At UW, I have taught at each course level (1000 through 5000), and I have taught in a diverse set of classroom environments (e.g., large introductory lecture-style courses, technology-focused classes in computer labs, basic and advanced writing courses, graduate seminar). You may download the syllabi at <http://www.klandreville.com/syllabi.html>. My overall teaching evaluation average while at UW is a 4.56 (on a 5-point scale) across all courses. You may view of summary of teaching evaluations at <http://www.klandreville.com/evals.html>.

Teaching and Advising Philosophy: I believe the student and instructor/mentor relationship should be built upon: respect, understanding, trust, transparency, and high expectations. A strong feeling of community will strongly encourage students and advisees to remember academic experiences, even when they have completed their degree. You may view my full teaching philosophy at http://www.klandreville.com/teaching\_philosophy.html.
